

Dear Commissioner Henney,

9/1/99

I learned from my Nutrition Action Healthletter they are petitioning the FDA to require an RDA for sugar and to post in on nutritional labels.

We personally changed our eating habits when we were able to see how much sodium or fat was in certain foods. We believe that high consumption of sugar is also detrimental to health and people, especially parents, should be aware of additional sugar added to foods.

We encourage the FDA to establish some sort of reference value above the 40 gram level. Thank you for your consideration.
